For more information and a video showing the type of activities the children do please see - <https://www.aveea.org/parents/this-terms-adventures>

Your Child, Building Things That Actually Work

This term they'll build a catapult that fires, grind rock into paint, and invent a material that shouldn't exist.

They won't call it science. We will.

Powered by Industry Experts

Our workshops aren't run by whoever was free, they're built by working engineers and scientists. What your child makes on a Tuesday is the same thinking that builds bridges and designs medicines.

A Glimpse of This Term's Adventures

Paint - The Chemistry of Colour

Grind real pigment into watercolour that actually works and uncover the chemistry of colour

Engineering Challenges - Built to Solve

Design and build a wind-powered car, then test and tune it to go further, real engineering, with real 3D-printed parts.

Squishy - The Science of Squish (Special!)

Make their own squishy and discover the science of fluid dynamics and how liquids move.

Ready for Autumn Term?

An hour on a Wednesday or Thursday, or another hour on a screen.
One of these they'll still be talking about at dinner.
